MESSAGE FROM THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

In today’s rapidly changing world, technological advances are influencing how we live our lives – transforming our culture, society and economy.

This changing environment presents a host of new opportunities, but also challenges for our work.

The Smith Family must adapt and evolve if we are to meet these opportunities and challenges head on and continue to provide effective, relevant support for children and families in need.

Our new Five-Year Strategy is designed to help us with this task.

The successful completion of our previous Five-Year Strategy provided a strong foundation for our organisation to build on. We achieved our ambition of ensuring the effectiveness of our programs and of growing our reach to support more disadvantaged young Australians.

In the five years ahead, we will focus on growth and innovation.

Our new Five-Year Strategy sets out a bold new ambition and a target to reach more disadvantaged young Australians with our evidence-based programs. We have set six strategic priorities that provide a framework for achieving our goals, as we continue to support children in need to improve their educational outcomes.

With more than 1.1 million Australian children and young people living in poverty, the need is great.¹ Innovation will be vital to ensure that our work equips more children and young people to thrive in the 21st century.

For their help developing our next Five-Year Strategy, we thank the members of our Board and advisory groups, and the many external experts in a range of fields who gave us much valued advice. We also thank our team members for their input and support. For guiding the development of this strategy, we are also deeply grateful for the pro bono support of consulting firm Bain & Company. They took us through a comprehensive process which enabled us to develop an outcomes-driven, long-term plan.

With our plan locked in, The Smith Family is ready for the next phase.

We’re looking forward to working with our families and supporters to achieve our vision of a better future for young Australians in need.

Dr Lisa O’Brien
Chief Executive Officer

A SNAPSHOT OF THE FUTURE

To ensure we continue to support disadvantaged young Australians in the best possible way, our strategy has been developed to address future trends that will shape our world over the next five years.

During our strategic planning process, we explored trends and issues affecting the world in which we operate, drawing from experts, research and best practice around the globe.

Key factors influencing our strategy are described below.

THE PROBLEM OF DISADVANTAGE IS LARGE

- There are 1.1m children and young people (0 to 24 years old) living below the poverty line in Australia.¹ This number has been growing.
- Disadvantage has been persistent, with at least 17% of children living in poverty since 2007, and there are no signs that this rate will substantially fall over the next five years.
- Educational outcomes for this group are poor, with children living in poverty recording a 30% negative difference in educational outcomes, such as on NAPLAN results or completing Year 12.²

NEW CHALLENGES FOR DISADVANTAGED FAMILIES

- Technological changes and the evolving nature of work will bring new challenges in the years ahead that will also affect educational outcomes.
- Digital skills are increasingly becoming core, deepening the ‘digital divide’ for disadvantaged communities, and making it harder for these young people to participate.
- This digital divide is growing at a time when digital technology is enabling and transforming the way educational content is delivered, and the role of the teacher.

THE NATURE OF WORK IS CHANGING

- Young people today are likely to have multiple careers throughout their working lives, demanding ongoing re-training, resilience, and good social and emotional skills.
- More than 40% of jobs in Australia could be replaced by computers within the next decade or two.³
- Higher skill levels are required for entry-level positions.
- School leavers will increasingly need entrepreneurial skills and the aptitude to be effective in the workforce.

FUNDING IS INCREASINGLY COMPETITIVE

- With more than 50,000 charities in Australia, we will continue to find it challenging to grow our share of funds raised.
- Innovation is vital, as donors become more sophisticated and new fundraising methods and models develop.
- Digital engagement with supporters is essential.

If it weren’t for my sponsor and a particular teacher, then I would seriously not be where I am today. Two people put so much belief in a child … It’s all a kid needs.

As a sponsor, you are not just helping the child you sponsor, and their immediate family. You’re helping a whole generation.
